

To Whom It May Concern:

1) We at Halcrow Bros think credit card surcharge fees should be banned in Australia. The published price should be the price.

2) If the government doesn't ban these surcharges, our cost of living could eventually go up 1-2% across the board as all goods and services adopt them.

3) As is happening with Jetstar, there's simply no transparency – and it means the rip-off surcharges are getting bigger and bigger. Who knows where it will end.
