To O.I.C.

I am writing this letter to raise my concerns over the proposed push for a bail in law.

I do not agree that the government can pass a legislation to help themselves to a working persons retirement fund to bail out massive banks who play with and manipulate other peoples money.

I am approaching retirement age after working as a tradesman for 42 years, over that 42 years I feel I have paid enough to the greedy banks with all their sneaky hidden fees.

I also would like to see a Glass-Steagall separation of banking to allow people on the land and in industry to grow their business with banking co-operation and understanding.
