

No to any form of "bail-in", "ring-fencing", or any other concocted bankers' trick to preserve the "Too Big To Fail" bank lie, currently prevailing. The only just solution to the present banking crisis is to address the criminality of present banking practices by enacting a complete separation of Commercial Banking from Investment Banking. This is the Glass-Steagall Law enacted by FDR in 1933, which must be applied here in Australia and all nations, in asserting our sovereignty over the hegemony of this cancerous "monetarism", as the necessary first step in the process of this intention, if we are to survive as a civilized, unique, creative human society.
